Bowers Elementary school put on another exciting and successful career day!

On April 24, the entire school got to go around to various classrooms and areas, and learn about a variety of careers. There were firemen, police, a judge, a dog groomer, a marine, and a mechanic just to name a few.

The day was scheduled into three sessions, and students were able to pick what careers they wanted to learn about. The day was kicked off with keynote speakers from a popular country music radio station, and wrapped up with a professor from UConn who was an illustrator and graphic designer. The entire day was a huge success, and students were very involved and engaged.
